

Short Table of Contents

Acronyms

xxv

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Brazil, 1960-1990 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	3
2	The 1960's: Economic Decline, Political Crisis and the Coup	19
3	The Military Government: The First Ten Years	33
4	Gross Human Rights Violations	65
5	State and State-sponsored Actors I: Police and Intelligence Services	93
6	State and State-sponsored Actors II: The Armed Forces	135
7	The Long Transition and the New Democracy	177
8	Conclusions	203
	Bibliography	739

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Uruguay, 1960-1990 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	221
2	Economic Decline and Political Crisis in the 1960's	233
3	The 1970's: Political Crisis, Military Coup and Dictatorship	255
4	Gross Human Rights Violations	283
5	State and State-sponsored Actors I: Police and Intelligence Services	303
6	State and State-sponsored Actors II: The Armed Forces	329
7	Transition and the New Democracy	363
8	Conclusions	377
	Bibliography	759

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Chile, 1960-1990 - Hugo Frühling

1	Introduction	391
2	Historical Setting and Political System	397
3	Political Crisis and Internal Security in the 1960's	411
4	The Popular Unity Government and the Breakdown of the Democratic System in Chile: 1970-1973	431
5	The Government of Augusto Pinochet	455
6	Political Repression during the First Phase of the Military Regime	465
7	GHRV: State and State-sponsored Actors	499
8	Repression during the Second Phase of the Military Regime, 1978-1989	531
9	The Policy on Human Rights during the Democratic Transition Period	559
10	Summary and Conclusions	583
	Bibliography	769

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Argentina, 1976-1983 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	595
2	Internal and External Security in the 1960's and a New Doctrine on Revolutionary Warfare, 1955-1966	613
3	The Perón-Perón Government: Political and Economic Crisis, 1973-76	635
4	The Second Military Government: The Process of National Reorganization (PRN)	645
5	Target Sectors of GHRV	653
6	The Role of the Armed Forces and the Police	671
7	Transition and Democracy	717
8	Summary and Conclusions	725
	Postscript	737
	Bibliography	785

Appendices

1	List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Brazil	805
2	U. Alexis Johnson: Internal Defense and the Foreign Service, 1962 (extracts)	806
3	US Military and Police Strategy in Latin America (extracts)	810
4	CIA Document on the Goulart Presidency, 1963	812
5	Institutional Act No. 5, 1968	813
6	Courses at the US Army School of the Americas	815
7	US Congress on Police and Human Rights in Brazil (extracts)	818
8	Political Impact of US Military Assistance	820
9	List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Uruguay	826
10	Law nullifying the state's claim to punish certain crimes, No. 15,848, 1986, article 1 - 4	827
11	The Reasons of the Chilean Junta, 1973	828
12	Speech by Augusto Pinochet Ugarte, 1975 (excerpts)	830
13	List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Argentina	836
14	List of secret documents of the military government in Argentina, 1976-1983	837
15	Speech by general Videla in April 1976	840
16	Final Document of the Argentinian military junta regarding the war against subversion and terrorism, 1983 (extracts)	842

Index	845
--------------	-----

Comprehensive Table of Contents

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Brazil, 1960-1990 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	3
1.1	Introduction	3
1.2	Sources	3
1.3	Legacies of the Political System	5
	Controversies Surrounding Development Models	7
1.4	Research on Gross Human Rights Violations	8
	The Military	9
	The Origins of the 1964 Coup	12
	The Military as a Political Actor	15
	Relations of the Military with other Political Actors	16
	Foreign Influences	17
2	The 1960's: Economic Decline, Political Crisis and the Coup	19
2.1	The Quadros Presidency (1960-1961)	19
2.2	The Goulart Presidency (1961-1964)	22
2.3	The 1964 Coup	26
	Competing Interpretations	28
	US Involvement: Knowing, Facilitating or Instigating?	29
3	The Military Government: The First Ten Years	33
3.1	The Castello Branco Presidency	33
3.2	The Emergence of Guerrilla Groups	37
	Goals and Strategy	40
	Justification of Violence	41
	Tactics	42
	Definition of Enemy and Victims	42
	The Defeat	44
	Concluding Remarks	46
3.3	The Costa e Silva Presidency (1967-1968)	47
3.4	The Médici Presidency (1969-1974)	49
3.5	Economic Policies	50
	Economic Growth	51
	Minimum Wages	54
	Income Distribution	54
	Viability of the Model	57
3.6	Foreign Influences on the Political System	58
	The Northeast	59
	The 1963-1964 Events	63
4	Gross Human Rights Violations (GHRV)	65
4.1	Scope of GHRV	65
4.1.1	Political Imprisonment and the Judicial System	66

4.1.2	Torture	70
	Scope	71
	Motives for Torture	74
	Government Reactions	77
4.1.3	Extrajudicial Executions and Disappearances	79
	Disappearances	80
4.2	Target Groups of Human Rights Violations	84
	Students	86
	Labor Unions	86
	The Legal Sector	88
	The Media	89
	The Catholic Church	90
	Indigenous Peoples	91
5	State and State-sponsored Actors I: Police and Intelligence Services	93
5.1	State Militias and Police Forces	93
	Civil and Military Police	94
	Department of Political and Social Order (DOPS)	96
5.2	Foreign Influences on the Police	98
	Threat Perception	99
	Scope and Focus	101
	Foreign Training: IAPA, IPA and Other Institutions	102
	Training in Crowd and Riot Control	105
	Transfer of Materiel	106
	US Bomb School	107
	Internal Evaluation of Political Repercussions	108
	Military and Police roles in Internal Security	117
	The Role of the US Congress	119
	The Role of Dan A. Mitrione	121
5.3	The Role of the CIA	124
5.4	Intelligence Services	125
	Military Intelligence	127
	National Information Service (SNI)	128
5.5	Death Squads and Right-wing Groups	130
	Death Squad Activities	131
	Right-wing Groups	133
6	State and State-sponsored Actors II: The Armed Forces	135
6.1	Origins and Organizational Development	135
	Social Background	137
	Political Roles	138
	Political Factions	139
	Intra-military Dissent	140
6.2	Ideological Factors: The Official Discourse	142
	The National Security Doctrine	143
	History of Doctrine	145
	Central Concepts	146
	Internal Security and Revolutionary War	149
	Conceptualization of Opposition	150
	Human Rights	151
	The Presidential Discourse	153

6.3	Foreign Influence on the Armed Forces	156
	The Kennedy Administration and the Latin American Military	156
	Content of Training Courses	159
	U.S. Military Cooperation with Brazil	160
	Material Support	163
	Threat Perceptions	163
6.4	South-South Cooperation	165
6.6	Selection of the Repression Model	167
	Status of Prisoners	172
	Opposition within the Military and Police	172
	Attempts at Justification	174
	Concluding Remarks	175
7	The Long Transition and the New Democracy	177
7.1	The Geisel Presidency (1974-1979)	177
7.2	The Figueiredo Presidency (1979-1985)	180
	Human Rights NGOs	181
	The Security Apparatus	183
7.3	The Sarney Presidency (1985-1990)	184
	The Constituent Assembly	185
	Past Human Rights Violations	186
	A New Role for the Military?	187
	The SNI	189
7.4	The Collor de Mello Presidency	189
7.5	Human Rights Violations under the New Democracy	190
	Rural Areas	191
	Urban Areas	192
	The Media	193
	Torture Within the Military	194
	Death Squads	195
	State of Rio de Janeiro	196
	Killing of Street Children	197
	The Reaction of the State	198
	Human Rights Groups Face Increasing Problems	201
	Concluding Remarks	202
8	Conclusions	203
	History and Political System	203
	The 1964 Coup	204
	The Ideological Factor	205
	New Organizational Factors	207
	Intelligence	208
	GHRV: Systematic or Accidental?	208
	Political Violence as a Causal Factor	210
	Justification of Human Rights Violations	212
	Economic Factors	214
	Foreign Influences	215
	Human Rights Violations under the Democracy	216
	Bibliography	739

Appendices

1. List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Brazil (selection)	805
2. U. Alexis Johnson: Internal Defense and the Foreign Service, 1962 (extracts) . .	806
3. US Military and Police Strategy in Latin America (extracts)	810
4. CIA Document on the Goulart Presidency (1963)	812
5. Institutional Act No. 5 (1968)	813
6. Courses at the US Army School of the Americas	815
7. US Congress on Police and Human Rights in Brazil (extracts)	818
8. Political Impact of US Military Assistance	820

Tables

1. Repression and Liberalization Cycles, 1964-1982	14
2. Political Punishments, 1964-1969	50
3. GNP Growth Rate, 1960-1971	53
4. Distribution of Income	55
5. Income Distribution by Income Deciles, 1960 and 1970	55
6. Educational Level of People Denounced, Charged, and Giving Testimony	67
7. State Agencies Responsible for Imprisonment	67
8. Legal Basis for Initial Charges	68
9. Charges in Political Trials	69
10. Preliminary Reasons or Merits of the Public Prosecution	69
11. Preliminary Reasons or Merits of the Defense	70
12. Number of Torture Allegations per Year	72
13. Torture Allegations by State	73
14. Age of Torture Victims	73
15. Disappearances, 1964-1975	81
16. Disappearances, by political group or other characteristics	81
17. US Public Safety Advisors in Brazil, 1959-1971	102
18. Brazilian Police Participation at IPA Courses	104
19. Intelligence Agencies	126
20. Social Background of the Brazilian Military, 1975-1977	137
21. Cadets' Family Background: Civilian vs Military	138
22. Political Interventions of the Brazilian Military	138
23. Purges of the Officers Corps, 1964-1967	141
24. US Assistance to Brazil in US$, FY 1961-1976	163

Figures

1. Evolution of Brazilian Guerrilla Groups	39
2. Assassination of Rural Laborers, 1964-1986	87
3. Structure of the SNI	128
4. SNI Filing Card	129
5. Right-wing Terrorist Acts, 1966-1980	133
6. Distribution of Military Commands	136
7. Formulation of the National Strategic Concept	145
8. National Security: Nation, Government, Ministries	148
9. Strategy or Policy of National Security	148
10. The Repressive Apparatus	170

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Uruguay, 1960-1990 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	221
1.1	Introduction	221
1.2	Sources	222
1.3	Research on Gross Human Rights Violations in Uruguay	223
	The Role of the Military	224
	Internal vs. External Factors	227
1.4	Legacies of the Political System	228
	Economic Crisis and the Political System	230
2	Economic Decline and Political Crisis in the 1960's	233
2.1	The Emergence of MLN Tupamaro	233
	Social Origins	234
	The 1971 Coup Threat	236
	Goals and Strategy	236
	Organization and Internal Discipline	238
	Justification of Violence	239
	Tactics	241
	Victims	242
	Definition of the Enemy	243
	Links with and Support of Civilian Society	244
	Strength	245
	The Defeat	245
2.2	The Gestido/Pacheco Areco Presidency (1966-1971)	248
	The Military is Called In	251
	The Declaration of Internal War	252
	Concluding Remarks	253
3	The 1970's: Political Crisis, Military Coup and Dictatorship	255
3.1	The Civilian Bordaberry Presidency (1971-1973)	255
	The Coup Attempt in February 1973	257
	Relations with Parliament	259
3.2	The Coup, and the Civilian-Military Bordaberry Government (1973-1976)	261
	Motives for the Coup	263
	COSENA and CES	265
	Reflections of Bordaberry	269
	Repression and Education	270
3.3	The Méndez and Alvarez Presidencies (1976-1985)	270
	Intra-Military Tensions Grow	273
	The 1980 Plebiscite	274
3.4	Economic Policies	275
	Economic Interest Groups and Access to the Military Regime	279
	Concluding Remarks	281
4	Gross Human Rights Violations (GHRV)	283
4.1	Scope of GHRV	283
4.1.1	Political Imprisonment	284

4.1.2	Torture	287
	The role of Medical Doctors and Psychologists	292
4.1.3	Disappearances	294
4.1.4	Extrajudicial Executions	296
4.2	The Judicial System	296
	Civilian Justice	296
	Military Justice	298
4.3	Political Parties as a Target Group	301
5	State and State-sponsored Actors I: Police and Intelligence Services	303
5.1	Foreign Influences on the Political Process	303
5.2	The Police	305
	Obstacles to Successful Police Work	308
	The Police as the Enemy	309
5.3	Foreign Influences on the Police	310
	The Mitrione Case	311
	Training at the International Police Academy	313
	Material	314
	Creation of an Intelligence Directorate	315
	Evaluation	318
	End of Program	319
	Link with the Armed Forces	320
	Influences from other Countries	320
5.4	The Role of the CIA	321
5.5	Intelligence Services	323
5.6	Death Squads	325
	US Bomb School	327
6	State and State-sponsored Actors II: The Armed Forces	329
6.1	Origin and Organizational Evolution	329
	Mission and Doctrine	330
	Organization	331
	Antecedents of Growing Politization	333
	Dissidence among the Military	336
	The Military in Government	339
6.2	Ideological Factors: The Official Discourse	341
	Sedition and Subversion	342
	The Regional Context	344
	The Doctrine of National Security	346
	Other Influences	349
	Brazil	349
	United States	349
6.3	The Strategy against the Tupamaros	351
	Definition of the Enemy	352
	Crucial Mistakes	355
6.4	Foreign Influences on the Armed Forces	357
6.5	South-South Cooperation	359
6.6	The Selection of the Repression Model	359
	Interviews with Military Officers	360
	Doctrines	361

7	Transition and the New Democracy	363
7.1	Transition to Democracy	363
7.2	The Sanguinetti Presidency (1985-1990)	366
	Relations with the Military	367
	The 1986 Amnesty Law	368
	The 1989 Referendum	371
	Reflections	372
7.3	The Lacalle Presidency	373
7.4	Self-defense and Future Role of the Armed Forces	374
	Justifying the Past	374
	A New Mission?	375
8	Conclusions: Gross Human Rights Violations in Uruguay	377
	Gradual Transition toward Dictatorship	377
	Challengers: Armed Opposition and State Response	379
	Resources	381
	The Role of the Military	381
	New Institutions	382
	Support of the Population	383
	Military vs. Civilian Government and Human Rights Violations	383
	Ideological Factors	384
	Foreign Interests	385
	The Role of the United States	386
	Material Support for Gross Human Rights Violations	387
	Bibliography	759
	Appendices
9.	List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Uruguay (selection) ...	826
10.	Law Nullifying the State's Claim to Punish Certain Crimes, No. 15,848, 1986. Articles 1-4	827
	Tables
1	Average Annual Rates of Growth of GDP, Total and per Capita at Constant (1961) Factor Cost, 1945-70	230
2	Sociocultural Origins of Tupamaros, 1969/1972	235
3	Assessment of Politicians, 1969	251
4	Economic Indicators, 1973-1983	277
5	Distribution of Income, 1973/1976	278
6	Political Detentions per Period	284
7	Political Activities at the Moment of Detention, according to Sex	284
8	Number of National Security Prisoners per year, 1976-1984	285
9	Detention Period according to Sex	285
10	Time of Incommunicado Detention	286
11	Time of Guarded Liberty	286
12	Forms of Torture	288
13	Presence of a Medical Doctor during Torture	293
14	Arrests of 'Subversives' by the Police, 1966-1971	309
15	Summary of Police Actions, 1971	309

16	Increase of Posts in the Ministry of the Interior, 1970-1978	310
17	Public Safety Trainees in the United States, Fiscal Years 1964-1974	314
18	us Public Safety Program Expenditures for Uruguay, Fiscal Year 1964-1974 . . .	315
19	Intelligence Organizations	323
20	Size of the Armed Forces and Defense Expenditures as a Percent of GDP, 1975-1985	330
21	Increase of Posts in the Ministry of Defense, 1970-1978	340
22	Participation of Uruguayan Military Officers in Courses at the US School of the Americas, 1970-1975	357
23	us Military Aid, Economic Aid, Economic Aid from World Bank, IDB, IFC and UNDP, 1977-1985	358

Figures

1	Organization of MLN Tupamaros, According to the Military, 1972	240
2	Distribution of Military Regions (Divisions)	332
3	The Military's Concept of Society: Security and Development	348
4	Organization of the High Command of the Armed Forces, 1968	353
5	Organization of the Armed Forces for the Antisubversive Campaign	354

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Chile, 1960-1990 - Hugo Frühling

1	Introduction	391
1.1	Introductory Remarks	391
1.2	Focus of this Study	392
1.3	Sources of Information	393
1.4	Chapters of the Text	395
2	Historical Setting and Political System	397
2.1	Legacies of the Political System	397
	Labor and Politics	398
	Constitutional Rights in the Democratic Period	400
	Military and Politics	402
2.2	Research on Gross Human Rights Violations	404
	The Origins of the 1973 Coup	405
	Military Rule and Gross Human Rights Violations	407
2.3	Concluding Remarks	410
3	Political Crisis and Internal Security in the 1960's	411
3.1	The Political System during the 1960's	411
	The Party System	411
	The Presidential Election	412
	The Eduardo Frei Administration	413
	Political Opposition to the Christian Democratic Government	414
3.2	Development of Political Violence in the 1960's	417
	The Social Mobilization and its Impact on Violence	417
	The Impact of the Cuban Revolution in Chile	421
	The Emergence of the Revolutionary Movement of the Left (MIR)	422
3.3	Human Rights Violations during the 1960's	424
3.4	The Political Role of the Military	426
	Civil-Military Relations	426
	The Military's New Concern with Internal Security	427
3.5	Conclusion	430
4	The Popular Unity Government and the Breakdown of the Democratic System in Chile: 1970-1973	431
4.1	The Election of President Allende	431
4.2	The Policies of the Popular Unity Government	433
4.3	Political Polarization and Violence during the Popular Unity Government	436
	Characterization and Scope of the Political Violence during this Period	436
	The Evolution of Political Violence	437
4.4	The Strategy of the Opposition	441
	The Right-wing Parties	441
	The Christian Democratic Party	443
	The Judiciary	445
4.5	The Military and the Breakdown of Democracy	446
	Political Polarization and its Effect on the Military	446
	The First Military Revolt	447

4.6	The US and the Chilean Left	450
	The 1970 Presidential Elections	451
4.7	Conclusions	453
5	The Government of Augusto Pinochet	455
5.1	Ideology and the Legal Framework of Political Repression	455
	The Evolution of the Ideological Discourse of the Regime	456
5.2	The Military Policies of the Military Government	458
5.3	The Economic Policies of the Military Government	460
	Business Support for the Military Government	461
	The Social Cost of Economic Policies	461
	The Economic Factors as Determinants of GHRV	463
5.4	Conclusions	464
6	Political Repression during the First Phase of the Military Regime	465
6.1	Scope and Frequency of Human Rights Violations (1973-1989)	465
	Disappearances	467
	Extrajudicial Executions	469
	Torture	471
6.2	The Target of the Repression: the Victims of Human Rights Violations (1973-1989)	472
	General Characterization of the Victims of the Repression	473
6.3	The Reaction of Society to Human Rights Violations	476
	The Military as Target of Human Rights Violations	476
	The Reaction of the Catholic Church	477
	The Judiciary	479
6.4	Characteristics of the First Phase of the Repression	481
	Repressive Legislation and the War Councils	484
	Trial FACH 1-73	485
	Gross Human Rights Violations between September and December 1973	486
	Gross Human Rights Violations between 1974-1977	490
6.5	The International Factors which Influenced the End of the First Repressive Phase	494
	The Carter and Reagan Administrations	495
	The Influence of External Pressures on Repressive Policies	496
6.6	Conclusions	497
7	GHRV: State and State-sponsored Actors	499
7.1	The Official Discourse on Security and Human Rights	499
7.2	The Intelligence Services of Chile: 1973-1977	501
	The Intelligence Service of the Navy	502
	The Intelligence Service of the Air Force	502
7.3	The Genesis of New Security Forces	504
	The DINA	504
	Growth and Consolidation of the DINA	506
	The DINA's Heyday	510
	Finances	511
	Number of Agents	512
	The Joint Task Force	513

7.4	The Police	514
	The Intelligence Service of Carabineros	515
	The Political Section of the Investigations Police	515
7.5	Foreign Influences on the Armed Forces and Police	516
	United States-Chilean Relations	517
	US Influence on the Police	519
	US Influence on the Military	520
	Training	521
	Special Forces	522
7.6	South - South Cooperation	523
7.7	Selection of the Repressive Model	525
	The Crisis of the Repressive Model	527
7.8	Conclusion	528
8	Repression during the Second Phase of the Military Regime (1978-1989)	531
8.1	The Institutionalization of the Military Regime	531
8.2	The Opposition to the Military Regime	533
	The Political Opposition	533
	Judicial Investigation of Human Rights Abuses	535
	The Armed Resistance to the Military Regime	536
8.3	The Security Forces during the Second Repressive Phase: The CNI	540
	The National Centre of Informations (CNI)	540
	The Consolidation of the CNI	542
	The Internal Structure of the CNI	544
	The Response to Social Mobilization	545
8.4	The Diversification of the Repressive Agents as a Response to the Increase in Social Mobilization	546
	The Antisubversive Command (CAS)	546
	The Carabineros Communications Command (DICOmCAR)	547
	The Intelligence Forces of the Armed Forces	550
8.5	Targets and Mechanisms of the Repression	550
	1978-1982: The First Sub-Phase	551
	1983-1989: The Second Sub-Phase	553
8.6	Conclusions	557
9	The Policy on Human Rights during the Democratic Transition Period	559
9.1	The Democratic Transition Period in Chile	559
	The Military and the Constitution of 1980	559
	The 1988 Plebiscite	560
	The 1989 Amendments to the Constitution	561
	Institutional Obstacles Faced by the New Government	562
9.2	The Human Rights Policy of the Government of the Concertación	563
	The Human Rights Issue During the Presidential Campaign	563
	The Political Decisions of the New Government	565
	The Creation of the Commission on Truth and National Reconciliation	565
	Mandate and Methodology of the Commission's Work and report	566
	Compensation for the Victims	570
	The Sentencing of Human Rights Violators	572
9.3	Government-Military Relations during the Transition	575
9.4	The Future of Human Rights	579
9.5	Conclusion	581

10	Summary and Conclusions	583
	History and the Political System	583
	The 1973 Coup d'état	584
	The Military and the Coup	585
	The Different Phases of Repression	586
	The Justification of Human Rights Violations	589
	The Economic Factors	589
	External Influences	590
	Additional Hypotheses	591

Bibliography	769
--------------------	-----

Appendices

11.	The Reasons of the Chilean Junta 1973	828
12.	Speech by Augusto Pinochet Ugarte, 1975 (excerpts)	830

Tables

1	Average Vote for the Right from the Rural Municipalities predominantly dependent on Agriculture, in Parliamentary Elections	412
2	Distribution of Violent Incidents by Type and Year (1960-1970)	418
3	Violent Political Incidents Triggered by Labor Disputes, by Year: 1960-70	419
4	Number of Rural Conflicts Triggered by Tomas	419
5	Distribution of Acts of Undue Force Resulting in Death, by Year: 1960-1970 ..	425
6	Military Personnel Trained in the US, 1950-73	428
7	Number of Articles in the Memorial del Ejército on the Topic of Subversion, Guerrilla Warfare, and Special War	428
8	Composition of Political Violence, by Type of Incident: 1960-1973	437
9	Distribution of Violent Incidents between March and September 1973	440
10	Productivity and Labor Costs in the Industrial Sector	461
11	National Unemployment Rates	462
12	Real Wages	462
13	Distribution of Home Consumption in Santiago	462
14	Distribution of Killings and Disappearances by Year	465
15	Distribution of Killings and Disappearances according to their Type: 1973-1989	467
16	Distribution of the Detentions-Disappearances by Year	469
17	Torture Victims 1978-1988	472
18	Distribution of the Victims of Killings and Disappearances by Region of Residence: 1973-1989	473
19	Distribution of the Victims by Sector where the Violations take place: 1973-1989	474
20	Distribution of the Victims by Political Party Affiliation 1973-1989	474
21	Distribution of Victims by Leadership: Political 1973-1989	475
22	Distribution of Victims by Leadership: Social 1973-1989	475
23	Distribution of Killings and Disappearances by their Type: 1973	487
24	Distribution of the Detentions-Disappearances by Sector where they Occurred, by Year: 1973-1989	487
25	Distribution of the Victims of Killings and Disappearances by Region: 1973 ...	488
26	Distribution of Human Rights Violations by Perpetrator: 1973	489
27	Distribution of the Victims by Political Leadership: 1973	490

28	Distribution of the Victims by Social Leadership: 1973	490
29	Distribution of the Victims by Affiliation: 1974-1977	491
30	Regional Distribution of the Victims: 1974-1977	492
31	Distribution of the Violations by Rural-Urban Sector: 1974-1977	492
32	Distribution of Violations by Author: 1974-1977	493
33	Distribution of Killings and Disappearances according to their Type: 1974-1977	493
34	Vote by the General Assembly of the United Nations Regarding the Human Rights Situation in Chile: 1974-1988	494
35	US Assistance to Chile (in million US dollars)	521
36	Distribution of Terrorist Incidents by Year: 1976-1989	538
37	Deaths Caused by Private Groups claiming Political Motives: 1979-March 1990	538
38	Distribution of Terrorist Incidents According to Organization to which the Action was Attributed, by Year	539
39	Denunciations of Intimidating Threats Filed with the Vicariate of Solidarity	551
40	Distribution of the Victims by Perpetrator and Year: 1978-1982	552
41	Distribution of the Victims by Political Affiliation and Year: 1978-1982	552
42	Distribution of the Victims of Extrajudicial Executions by Political Affiliation and Year: 1978-1982	553
43	Distribution of the Extrajudicial Executions by Official Explanation and Year: 1978-1982	553
44	Distribution of the Victims by Perpetrator, by Year: 1983-1989	554
45	Distribution of the Victims by Political Affiliation and Year: 1983-1989	554
46	Political Leadership Distribution Comparison among Victims: 1973-1989	555
47	Distribution of the Victims of Excessive Use of Force According to Circumstances surrounding Death and Year 1983-1989	556
48	Distribution of the Victims of Extrajudicial Executions by Political Affiliation and Year: 1983-1989	556
49	Distribution of the Victims by Urban-Rural Sector, by Place of Death and Year: 1983-1989	556
50	Comparison of Age Distribution in each of the Phases	557

Figures

1	Structure of the DINA	508
2	Structure of the DINA 1976-1977	509

Determinants of Gross Human Rights Violations by State and State-sponsored Actors in Argentina, 1976-1983 - Wolfgang Heinz

1	Historical Setting and Political System	595
1.1	Introduction	595
1.2	Sources	596
1.3	Research on Gross Human Rights Violations in Argentina	598
	History of the Political System	599
	Economic Factors	602
	Ideological Factors	603
	Foreign Influences	605
	Concluding Observations	606
1.4	Legacies of the Political System	607
	Perceptions in the United States	610
	Perón and the Left	610
	The Liberating Revolution	611
2	Internal and External Security in the 1960's and a New Doctrine on Revolutionary Warfare (1955-1966)	613
2.1	Internal Security and Threat Perception	613
2.2	The First Military Government: The Argentine Revolution (1966-73)	615
2.3	From the Doctrine of National Defense to Revolutionary Warfare	616
	Subversion	617
	Potential Countervailing Influences: Military Ethics and Discipline	619
2.4	The Emergence of Guerrilla Groups	621
	Peronist Guerrilla	622
	Montoneros	622
	The Question of Torture	626
	Victims	626
	People's Revolutionary Army (ERP)	628
	Attacks and Victims	631
	Concluding Remarks	631
	Guerrilla Losses	632
3	The Perón-Perón Government: Political and Economic Crisis (1973-76)	635
3.1	Crisis and Counter-subversive Strategy	635
	Amnesty and the Guerrillas	635
	Peronism Splits	636
3.2	Political Violence and GHRV: Tucumán Province	639
	'Annihilation' vs. 'Repression'	640
4	The Second Military Government: The Process of National Reorganization (PRN)	645
4.1	The Coup	645
4.2	Scope of Political Violence and GHRV	646
	Change of Repression	651
5	Target Sectors of GHRV	653
5.1	The Justice System	653
5.2	Journalists	658

5.3	The Roman Catholic Church	659
	Victims	660
	Criticisms	661
	Interventions on Behalf of Human Rights Victims	661
	Legitimizing the Military Government	662
	Reasons for the Positions Taken by the Church	662
	Evaluation of the Army High Command	663
5.4	Trade Unions	665
	Evaluation of the Army High Command	668
6	The Role of the Armed Forces and the Police	671
6.1	The Official Discourse and Military Doctrine	672
	Ideological Influences	673
	The National Security Doctrine	674
	French Counter-Insurgency in Algeria	677
	Reception of French counter-insurgency doctrine in Argentina	678
6.2	Secret Documents of the Military Juntas	680
	Targets	683
	Mission	684
	Legal Basis	685
	Treatment of Detainees	686
	Conclusions	687
	Other Sources of Doctrine	687
6.3	Intelligence Services	685
	Identifying the Enemy	689
6.4	Task Groups	690
	Scope of Personnel involved in GHRV	692
6.5	Foreign Influences on the Armed Forces	693
	Material Support	695
	Israel	696
6.6	Police	697
	Opposition against GHRV within the Police	698
6.7	Foreign Influences on the Police	699
	Military Assistance Program for Police Officers	703
	The Role of the Police in GHRV	703
6.8	Death Squads	704
6.9	Civilian Supporters of the Military	707
6.10	South-South Cooperation	708
6.11	The Victims	709
6.12	Selection of the Repression Model	710
	Threat Perception of Military Officers	713
	Additional Motives	715
7	Transition and Democracy	717
7.1	The Alfonsín Government	717
7.2	The Menem Presidency	721
7.3	The Self-defense of the Armed Forces	722
8	Summary and Conclusions: Gross Human Rights Violations in Argentina	725
	History and Political System	725
	Political Violence	726
	The 1976 Coup	727

Economic Factors	728
Ideological Factors	729
New Doctrines and Organizational Features	730
Perception of Military Officers	731
'Defeat the Guerrilla'	732
The Communist Threat	732
'There was a war'	732
'We were not prepared'	733
Targeting Military Officers	734
Excesses or Systematic Policies?	734
Getting Away With It	734
Concluding Remarks	735
Postscript	737
Bibliography	785
Appendices
13 List of Interviews by Wolfgang Heinz for the Study on Argentina (selection) ..	836
14 List of Secret Documents of the Military Government in Argentina (1976-1983)	837
15 Speech by General Videla in April 1976	840
16 Final Document of the Military Junta regarding the War against Subversion and Terrorism, 1983 (extracts)	842
Tables
1 Information Requests made by CONADEP	596
2 Victims of Terrorism	632
3 Inflation and per Capita GNP, 1971-76	637
4 Deaths Attributed to Subversion, Disappearances and Deaths by the Armed Forces in Tucumán	639
5 Deaths Attributed to Subversion, Disappearances, Deaths and Political Prisoners (1969-1983)	647
6 Victims of the Armed and Security Forces Attributed to Subversion	647
7 Victims of the Armed Forces and Security Forces Attributed to Subversion	648
8 Occupational Distribution of the Disappeared	650
9 Changes in the Methodology of Repression	651
10 People, Detained in Front of Witnesses, Who Have Still Not Reappeared	652
11 Number of Years of Detention for Prisoners	653
12 Distribution of Zones and Army Corps	681
13 Distribution of Secret Detention Centers, 1976-83	682
14 Responsibility for Secret Detention Centers	682
15 Intelligence Services in Argentina	689
16 US Military Aid and Arms Sales to Argentina	695
17 Death Squads in Operation, 1970-75	705
18 Death Squad Casualties, 1970-75	707
Figures
1 Organization of Montoneros	625
2 Distribution of Zones and Army Corps	634
3 Repression of Organized Labor in Argentina, 1956-1980	667
4 Structure of the Triple A	706